Church Gives JDC $1,139.64 Raised On Good Friday

Special
NEW YORK—Rabbi Jonah B. Wise, National Chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee, announced that he had received a check for $1,139.64 from the Episcopal Church of the Incarnation in Dallas, Tex.

The Fund, said Rabbi Wise, had been raised on Good Friday in the church and had been brought the following night to LEFKOWITZ the seder service on Passover by the minister of the Church, Dr. Valentine Lee, to Rabbi David Lefkowitz of Temple Emanu-El in Dallas.

In his letter to Rabbi Wise, enclosing the contribution, Rabbi Lefkowitz writes:

"About two weeks ago, Dr. Lee asked me if I would accept for the European Jewish refugees any fund that might be collected at his church when a drama entitled, 'The Sacrifice' by Charles Rann Kennedy, would be enacted on Good Friday.

Comes To Seder.

"Last Saturday, when our congregation was celebrating our community seder in the Temple social hall, a telephone message from Dr. Lee asked me whether he could come and say a few words to the assembly. We had finished the first part of the seder service and were finishing the meal, so I urged him to hasten and join in our seder upper. He and Mrs. Lee came just as we were about to begin the second part of the seder service. I introduced Dr. Lee and, in most eloquent manner, he explained that when one member of the body is hurt, the entire body feels it and we are all members of the body of humanity and his people felt the hurt that has come to the Jews through oppression, persecution at this time in Central Europe.

"Therefore, on Good Friday, his congregation collected a sum of money for the European Jewish refugees which he requested me to take on their behalf.

"Of course his words were received with a hearty applause, and the congregation standing. In accepting the gift, I referred to the fact that in a few moments the door would be opened for Elijah a part of the seder ceremony and explained that this ceremony, even in the darkest days of Israel, suggested the hope that Elijah, the harbinger of a new day, might possibly come in and participate in the midst of the seder service.

Compares Him To Elijah.

"This night," said I to Dr. Lee, "you and your people are the Elijah that has come to assure us of Israel, that even though millions of those who call themselves Christians in certain European lands, stand for separateness, barbarism, hate and persecution, here in America, Christians such as your congregation comprises, speak and act in the spirit of their Master for peace, love and brotherhood."

"When I opened the envelope that Dr. Lee presented on behalf of his congregation, I discovered that the sum donated was $1,139.64. (Continued on Page 2)

Nazi World Fair Decision Hailed

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Anti-Nazi circles are jubilant over Germany's decision, announced to the State Department by Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff, to withdraw from the 1939 New York World's Fair. The Nazi exhibit was to have occupied 100,000 square feet.

Although the German envoy cited financial difficulties as motivating his Government's decision, it was believed here that Mayor LaGuardia's vigorously expressed anti-Nazi attitude, coupled with refusal of the United States to sell helium gas to Germany without a guarantee that it would not be used for military purposes, played important roles. According to Dr. Dieckhoff, Germany would have encountered many difficulties in arranging for foreign exchange with which to finance construction of her exhibit.

JERUSALEM—For the first time in many years the natural increase in Palestine's Jewish population is greater than the increase through immigration, official statistics for 1937 disclose. The natural increase was 11,762 compared with 5,239 immigrants. NEWARK—Following spirited debate during which some clergymen scored Mayor Hague of Jersey City and others supported him, the 81st annual session of the Newark Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church adopted the report of its social service commission calling upon Jersey City churches to open their buildings for meetings barred by civil authorities.

The adopted report criticized alleged violations of civil liberties in Hudson County in connection with labor matters, and also urged Governor Moore to support a legislative investigation into his election.

Opposing adoption of the report, Rev. P. C. Greenly of Jersey City declared clergymen in Jersey City received the utmost cooperation and "adoption of this report might hamper the work of clergymen there."

Rev. Wilbur Wescott, Jr., also from Jersey City, declared: "I have never served anywhere where Methodist Episcopal clergymen are treated as royally as they are in Jersey City." He told the conference of receiving a police escort when he went to attend a dying man after dark.

The Jersey City, Y. M. H. A. recently cancelled a labor meeting in its auditorium after it had granted the group permission to meet.

NEWARK—Criticism of "ecclesiastical meddling in public affairs" was voiced by New Jersey's Governor A. Harry Moore in an address here before the Newark Methodist Episcopal Laymen's Association, a unit participating in the 81st annual session of the Newark Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

"It's the duty of the church to build men," Governor Moore asserted. "Settling the affairs of state is not the duty of the church, nor doing the things the world can do better than the church, but building men for God."

"Let me say that when the church breaks away from its moorings, gets away from God, it is not fulfilling its mission. When a laymen's movement gets back to the old ideals of the church and (Continued on Page 2)

The preview of "On to Hanita" was held in the board room of the Jewish National Fund, where the comfortable modern furnishings and the well-dressed crowd of officials and guests presented a striking contrast to the grimy clothes, the rough fare, and the hard and dangerous work of the settlers shown on the screen, whose

Attempt To Buy Books To Fail

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—Efforts of American groups to buy books by "non-Aryan" authors being purged from the Vienna State Library appear to be doomed to failure by a precedent set by Chancellor Hitler. An application some time ago to buy books by Jews in Germany which Hitler had announced would be destroyed was met with a personal reply from the Reichsfuehrer in which he said he could not consent because he did not wish to have the morals of the English people corrupted. This was revealed by Miss Christine Foyle of the well-known bookshop, W. and G. Foyle, Ltd.

Sam Untermeyer Resigns; Silver New League Head

Special

NEW YORK—Calling upon the 100,000 members to carry on the fight against Nazi oppression and propaganda, Samuel Untermeyer, 80-year-old lawyer and philanthropist, announced his resignation as president and chairman of the Board of the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, Inc. as of April 24.

UNTERMAYER is made imperative, he said, by his advancing age, ill health and pressing public duties. "While I regret the necessity of this step," his resignation read, "I am consoled by the reflection that, after more than five years of arduous and continuous service, the objects of the League have become so well known that it should from now on go forward under its own momentum."

The letter had been expected for some time in view of the aged lawyer's failing health coupled with the fact that he has recently been elected as a delegate-at-large to the New York State Constitutional Convention. The Convention, he said, is expected to occupy much of his time for the next five months, at least. Dr. Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland, O., first vice-president of The League, automatically becomes national president until new officers are chosen at the League's national Anti-Nazi Convention at the Hotel Edison, New York City, on Sunday, May 22.

The extent to which this is evident in the film, which is the official record of the event, is sufficient to make one wonder about the state of mind and temper of those in charge of the present Jewish settlement efforts. PLEBISCITE OF JEWISH STATE TO MARK ELECTIONS

Delegates To Be Selected June 25-27

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—American Jews will be asked next month to register their approval or disapproval of creation of a Jewish State in Palestine in the first national referendum on that and three other questions affecting Jewish life here and throughout the world, it was announced at a luncheon to representatives of the press by the American Jewish Congress.

The plebiscite will be held June 25, 26, 27, simultaneously with the national elections to select 400 delegates from 304 cities in the United States to an extraordinary session of the American Jewish Congress scheduled for September. Purchasers of the ten-cent certificates entitling them to vote for delegates will have the right to cast ballots in the plebiscite which, it was announced, will in all probability be conducted by mail.

The four questions to be put to registrants were announced as follows: (1) Shall the American Jewish Congress, established on a democratic basis in accordance with American ideals, be the representative agency of the Jews of America in defense of equal rights of Jews? (2) Do you favor the reorganization of American Jewish communities on a democratic representative basis; and the management of all community activities (including federations and welfare funds) on the same democratic, representative principle? (3) Do you favor establishment of a free Jewish State in Palestine? (4) Do you favor the continuance of the boycott against Nazi Germany, including within the boycott the recently annexed province of Austria?

Sixteen national organizations with a combined membership of 500,000, it was announced, have already signified their support of the plebiscite. They include Hadassah, Federation of Polish Jews in America, Hapoel Hamizrachi, Independent Order Brith Abraham, Independent Order B'rith Sholom, Jewish National Workers Alliance, Masada Mizrachi Organization, Order Sons of Zion, Pioneer Women's Organization; Poale Zion-Zeire Zion, Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, United Rumanian Jews of America, Women's Division of the American Jewish Congress, Youth Division of the A. J. C. and the Zionist Organization of America.

The question on the Jewish State, it was pointed out, constituted the first time it has ever been put to the American Jewish public in that form and the first time since 1918 that the Palestine issue has been put to a popular referendum in the United States. In 1918, it was stated, the then American Jewish Congress submitted to the public the question of approval of the Balfour Declaration with its pledge to facilitate establishment of a Jewish National Home in Palestine.

Speakers at the luncheon included Louis Lipsky, chairman; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish Congress and M. Maldwin Fertig, chairman of the National Board of Elections. The luncheon marked formal launching of the elections campaign.

NEW YORK—The rising tide of anti-Semitism in Europe, which has deprived more than 6,000,000 Jews and non-Aryans of a birthright, may some day sweep across the United States if Christian America does not aggressively challenge the menace, the Rev. Dr. Conrad Hoffman, Jr., assistant secretary of the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church of the U. S. A., declared at the Adams Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Saying that the general run of German people were not any more anti-Semitic than the average American, Dr. Hoffman described them as "being spoon-fed with propaganda against the Jews." He added "Americans scoff at the possibility of anti-Semitism sweeping this country, but let us remember that fundamentally the only difference between a lynching in the United States and a pogrom in Poland is that in the former instance it is usually a Negro who is persecuted and in the latter a Jew. Christian love is the only manner in which the problem of the Jew will be solved in the world today."

Jewish Welfare Spring Campaign Now On

Drive For Funds Set By 54 Cities

Special

NEW YORK—Jewish welfare fund spring campaigns, combining community fund-raising efforts for local, regional, national and overseas needs, have been announced in 54 cities in the United States and Canada, it was stated today by the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds.

The goals set range from the $750,000 sought by the Chicago Jewish Welfare Fund to the $700 aimed at by the Jewish Welfare Board of Vallejo, California, which is holding its first joint fund-raising drive this year. Hartford, Milwaukee and Winnipeg are also conducting their first welfare fund campaigns this spring.

Of the 27 welfare funds which have reported their goals for both 1937 and 1938 to the Council, 16 have set higher quotas this year than they did in 1937, nine are seeking the same amounts and only two have announced slightly lower figures.

Five communities have already held their campaigns and announced the results. Columbia, S. C., has raised $1,500; Des Moines, Iowa, $31,852; New Orleans, La., $59,100; Sedalia, Mo., $1,000; and Selma, Ala., $3,905. New Orleans is the first city this year to over-subscribe its goal.

Most of the cities conducting campaigns in April and May will allocate their funds to the two major overseas agencies, the Joint Distribution Committee and the United Palestine Appeal, under an agreement between the two organizations to divide all funds collected for them on the basis of 60 percent for the J.D.C. and 40 percent for the U.P.A. The agreement is applicable to all communities which have welfare funds affiliated with the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds.

The number of welfare funds, through which communities have done away with competitive fund-raising by many organizations in the same city, has grown from 52 in 1934 to 114 in 1937. In the same period, the estimated amounts given to Jewish causes has increased from $1,275,000 to $4,250,000.

The cities which have announced spring welfare fund campaigns are:

MUELLER CALLS ON COMMUNITY TO RAISE QUOTA AS DRIVE LAGS BEHIND GOAL

Believes $80,340 Can Be Raised If City Responds; Final Meeting Monday

With the prospects of facing a shortage in its goal, officials of the Jewish Welfare Fund issued a final appeal to the community in an effort to raise the campaign quota of $80,340.00.

Samuel Mueller, Chairman of the 1938 J. W. F. campaign made the following plea: "The eyes of Jewish communities over the entire nation are on Indianapolis. Drives in other cities have gone over 100-Per Cent. Will Indianapolis do less for Jewry in the present crisis than other communities?

The quota of $80,340.00 was set after careful and thorough consideration of the community's ability to raise this amount. Had our budget committees acceded to the requests of the Joint Distribution Committee and United Palestine Appeal our quota would have far exceeded the amount we are trying to raise. Therefore, what we are asking, is entirely within the means of the community to give.

The individual gift's quota is only $17,155.00. That represents about $7.00 for each of the 2,500 Jewish families in Indianapolis.

PEOPLE AND PLACES

HI HO again to you and you and you and it really is spring 'cause Annette Marcus has this verse to prove it. "Ah, tis Spring, The little bird sat on the wing, But how absurd, Cause the wing is on the bird." Yeah, man, it really is spring..... Saturday evening could have very easily been called "Kosher Wiener Roast Nite" since there were at least three such affairs. In the hot dog party Marian Berger gave at Holliday Farm were none other than Bernie (Scribe) Bloom, Sid (the man who fell in the water) Netzorg, Shirley (hotcha) Einbinder, Lillian Mae Smith, Joe (remember the style show?) Jackson, Jr., Adele (cute pie) Levey, Harold Berger, Bess Greenwald and Al Gornstein. Some fun, I'll say.... Natalie Stolkin, Fred Tuchman, Natalie Marcus, Johan Lovinger and Al Goldstein were seen cutting up at a wiener bake near Avon, Ind..... Found in a secluded spot on the banks of the river near Northern Beach were the Bachelor boys and their dates, namely, Harry (sore foot) Fogle, Dot (giggle gal) Rauh, Frieda (snow white) Brill, Josh (Gov. Murray—Jeremiah Murphy to you) Fineberg, Betty (the life of the party) Farber, Lou Jaeger, Doris Elizabeth Gunter and Bess Epstein who, we think, deserves a note of thanks for giving such wonderful prizes to the fellows in the Major Bowes contest..... also there were Oscar Davis (in a new riding habit) Sonny (smiles) Weinberg, Abby (the fire builder) Schwartz, Gertie Goldberg, Burt (pep personified) Kohn, Mike Efroyzman and Milt Pinkus. We understand the party was loads of fun and also quite educational.....

Sunday afternoon at Kirshbaum the Indianapolis Central Council was host to the executive committee of the Indiana Union of Jewish Youth. They're going to hold a summer outing at Lake Manitou. James, my hat, please. The meeting adjourned with everyone putting on the feed bag at Josh Fineberg's house. Thanx to his sister, Miriam.

Hits and misses from Broadmoor..... Mrs. Harry Farber was seen the other day all dressed up in her new sport outfit taking a golf lesson from Pro Souder. Says she'll beat her daughter, Betty, after two more lessons. Atta girl..... Betty F., Roxy G., Alice Jane R. and Ruth T. were caught enjoying a sweet game of tennis..... Jules Medias burning up the golf course with a snappy 42. Guess the reason for having such a low score was because he wasn't playing with Paul Lustgarten that day..... Tiny Epstein has been here, there, and everywhere the last few days, since he acquired his new Buick convertible coupe. Nice going, Tiny.

The Temple Young People's League has burst forth with an announcement of another one of its monthly affairs. This time it's a city wide outing to be held at Riverside on Sunday, May 15..... Watch for future publicity and be sure to be on hand for this gigantic affair..... If you are among the few persons who have not yet given to the Welfare Fund won't you please do so at once? Let us all be sure that we have really done our part in making the 1938 drive a success. And so, my friends, until Mothers Day becomes a holiday 365 days of the year I'll be seeking you and I do, ah dew, and I due mean adieu.

Slobodin Says New Colony Like Military Occupation

the front, even though it shows no actual fighting.

Advance Like Attack.

After witnessing the scene in which a column of trimly-uniformed, perfectly disciplined Jewish supernumerary policemen march along the road, deploy into scouting formation, and advance up a hillside, half-crouched, rifles ready, one is prepared to hear that a few hours later that hillside was the battleground for a bitter fight with an Arab terrorist band, in which two Jews were killed.

That particular scene was one of those in "On to Hanita" which strongly reminded me of "The Big Parade." In that picture there was a similar scene in which a column of American doughboys march along a road, halt and deploy into Belleau Woods to get their first taste of enemy fire.

There was another scene in "On to Hanita" showing the line of trucks carrying the settlers, their building materials, tools and arms, on their way to the site of the new colony, which struck me as a reproduction on a small scale of the famous "Big Parade" scene of the long file of trucks carrying the troops to the lines.

Discipline Strict.

Throughout, "On to Hanita" presented the founding of the settlement as the performance of an army, some in uniform and some in working clothes, some with guns on their shoulders, some with shovels and axes, some with both, but all marching in military formation under strict discipline. A humorous sequence showed the only rebel against this discipline—a little pack donkey kicking up his heels and refusing to stay in line, but his protest was quickly subdued.

Now I am fully aware of two things:—First, the discipline of the Hanita settlers was entirely voluntary, and anyone of them had a right, if he wished, to thumb his nose at the corporal, refuse to submit to the regime, and quit the settlement. Secondly, any Jewish settlement in Palestine today, and particularly the new ones in the North, must be prepared to defend itself against Arab raids. It is only natural that in this situation a generally combative state of mind should develop. It is, however, a curious phenomenon, though perhaps an inevitable result of Arab terrorism, that this military-mindedness receives official recognition as it has in "On to Hanita."

Really British Outpost.

The Palestine Government did not overlook the challenging quality of the film. It forbade its showing in public in Palestine because it displayed too much armament and too many Jewish supernumerary policemen. This was rather a head-in-the-sand action, because it is pretty well understood that the plans for settling of Hanita and of a string of further colonies soon to be established in the north of Palestine were worked out in collaboration with the British army staff here. Hanita and the projected colonies will, in fact, be defense outposts not only of the Jewish National Home, but of the British Empire's communications between East and West. That is an honorable assignment, and one in keeping with Jewish history.

Four thousand years ago, according to a widely-accepted historical hypothesis, the Jews, allies and wards of the Shepherd Kings of Egypt, settled in military colonies in the Land of Goshen, now the frontier country of Palestine and Egypt, and for centuries acted as defenders of the Egyptian Empire's boundary. Fifteen hundred years later, Jewish military colonies were the protectors of Egypt's southern frontier, deep in Africa, against Abyssinia.

Unhappy Fate?

Perhaps there is some room for questioning whether the Jewish people as a whole, throughout the world, want to accept once more this role of military guardians, at least on the terms on which it is now offered to them. Perhaps it is a matter for rather unhappy reflection that the Jews whose fate for 2,000 years has taught them to loathe the rule of force, should be thrust into such a role.

These speculations, however, may be brushed aside if one question can be answered in the affirmative. Are Hanita and projected similar settlements going to be places where Jews can really establish homes and make a living? It would appear that the Jewish Agency does not hope for the settlements to be even partly self-supporting for a long time. Provision has been made for completely financing Hanita from national funds for two years. American Jewry has contributed the major portion of the funds so far.

It seems to me that the British army might legitimately be called upon to provide at least part of the money. The Jewish National Home would certainly not accept the financing of its colonies by Britain, but she might very well pay at least for the military equipment with which her empire is being defended, as she should pay for all, and not merely part, of the vast military cost of protecting her strategic interests in Palestine.

COMMISSION MEETS

JERUSALEM.—Britain's Palestine Partition Commission, seeking a final settlement of disorders which have held sway in the Holy Land intermittently for two years, held its first session last week in a land seething with unrest, which overflowed into Syria and Egypt.

URGES CROWN COLONY.

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Palestine as a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations would mean "Government by one authority whose word would become law, instead of rule under numerous authorities whose laws are simply words," declared Moshe Schonfeld, honorary secretary of the Dominion League for Palestine, who is visiting here from London. He addressed a reception for Col. Josiah Wedgwood, honorary president of the league.

REFUGEES CROWD PARIS.

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

PARIS.—The increasing number of refugees from Austria is already resulting in a problem for the central Jewish organizations here, which foresee its considerable extension when the Nazis finally open the frontiers and permit an exodus of Austrian Jews. The Federation of Jewish Societies of France held a conference to consider steps to be taken on behalf of the refugees.

Meanwhile, feeling against foreigners is running high in France. Circulars were distributed advocating a strong campaign against foreign Jews. They bear the signature of Jean Charles Legran, leader of the French Front. Police prohibited Legran's scheduled mass meeting.

Between You And Me

FLAG: It was the night of the Hadassah gathering in honor of Col. Josiah Wedgwood, granite-jawed Laborite M. P.... At the auditorium of Temple Emanu-El on New York's Fifth Avenue... Which was decorated for the occasion by three flags.... Two of them American, one British.... Innocently, Col. Wedgwood recalled in the course of his speech an address he had given in San Francisco in 1917, on the occasion of a rally celebrating Allenby's capture of Jerusalem. Blissfully ignorant of the hornet's nest he was stepping into, the Colonel recalled that the San Francisco rally had an American flag, a Union Jack and the Zionist emblem on display.... When Wedge sat down, there was fire in Chairman Stephen S. Wise's eye and an ominous added jut to his jaw as he rose to speak.... "As a self-respecting Jew," he began, he protested the absence of the Zionist flag in the auditorium, protested the long-standing ban imposed on the emblem by Emanu-El.... Hadassah officials on the platform darted worried looks, whispers at him.... "I'm the president of the Zionist Organization of America," S. S. flung at them, and continued:

"I shall never again address a Jewish meeting in a hall at which it is forbidden to exhibit the Zionist flag.".... And when S. S. brought the rally to a close he delivered a parting shot, sarcastically thanking the Temple for permission to use its hall.... Speaking to a reporter later, Samuel Berliner, controller of the Temple, said there was no definite rule on the flag, but it was a long-standing precedent, that there had been no request for a Zionist flag prior to this meeting, and if the request were made, "We'll cross that bridge when we come to it."....

ANECDOTE: A Switt introduced a German to a friend.... Whom he described as a Swiss admiral.... "But what," the German demanded.... "does Switzerland want with admirals.... Since she has no navy?" Retorted the Swiss: "Well, after all, in Germany you have a Minister of Justice."....

IDEA: Now that Paraguay is recruiting a Jewish "foreign legion" in Austria to bear arms against Bolivia if the Gran Chaco dispute breaks out again, what's to stop Bolivia from doing the same, asks the office idea man.... Even if Bolivia has just pronounced a ban on immigration of "Negroes, Chinese, Jews, Gypsies and other suspicious characters."....

QUESTION: Will some bright boy get up and state whether or not the Francis Pershing-Muriel Bache Richards nuptials would have been possible in Germany?

OUR FILM FOLK of HOLLYWOOD

By HELEN SIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD—"The World Is Our Home," a story concerning the wanderings of the Jews, has been bought by Director Wesley Ruggles (a non-Jew). He has numerous offers of financial backing for its movie production, one being the Protestant head of a local bank.

The stork filled the LeRois order to the letter.... 'twas a girl. Some six hours after the package arrived, a friend, bubbling with congratulations, called Mervyn.... was instantly cooled by the announcement that "Mr. LeRoy isn't receiving any calls just now." "Huh," snapped the pal, "who had the baby anyway?"

Kurt Bois had to use putty props to make his ears stand out for his role of Rabbit. Since the film has been finished he sleeps with metal earmuffs to flatten his ears back in place.

A case of "Wolf! Wolf!"

Billy Gilbert has been on an extended vaude tour with his sneezing routine. Arriving home he got a bad attack of hay fever.... but his friends think he's still showing off the act, so turn on him the blank fish-eye and waste no sympathy.

Cracked though they seem, there's a purpose in the Marx madness. They spare nothing to insure the well-timed laughs of their screamies. They were the first to test out their gags beforehand in front of flesh-and-blood audiences. Now they've taken three adjoining offices.... dressed each one after a scene in "Room Service".... travel from one to the other rehearsing the dialogue of each act in its proper atmosphere.

Whispered in the Wings: Mrs. Robinson, vacationing in the ast, appointed "G-Man" Eddie as substitute author of her "feminine undies" column in a Beverly Hills mag. Since the Austrian coup Elisabeth Bergner, Paul Czinner, her husband, and Conrad Veidt have applied for British citizenship. The Doctor Joel Pressmans (Claudette Colbert), who were in Vienna during the invasion, write of their bad time in clearing necessary funds through the officials. Certain unrevealed film biggies are trying to buy up and dispose of that 5000-foot reel of pro-Nazi film which has made its way into this country. Eleanor Whitney celebrated her twenty-first birthday this week. Cantor can't boast too much about his five daughters... his chauffeur has the same.

...Till next time.

ROOSEVELT PLAN HIT

Special

TEL AVIV—President Roosevelt's offer of asylum in the United States for refugees from Germany and Austria and his call for an international conference on refugee for persecuted minorities were criticized by the Hebrew daily Davar. As far as the Jews were concerned, the philosophy underlying the United States' move was rejected by Davar, the world's largest Hebrew daily and official organ of the Histadruth. The paper held that the Roosevelt plan was "philanthropy" and therefore inconsistent with Zionist ideas. What the Jews require, the paper held, is a solution on a "national basis."

Jews Must Help Themselves.

Special

CHICAGO—President Roosevelt's proposal for international aid to refugees is a ray of light, but Jews must depend on their own forces for its realization, Chaim Greenberg, editor of The Jewish Frontier, declared at the fifteenth convention of the Young Poale Zion Alliance here.

The Editor's Chair:

This week I had aroused myself to a "holly" state of anger against The American Hebrew and its Richard Bonfils-minded publisher Joe Biben for its definitely unethical methods, but when I arrived in Louisville Saturday, everyone, from the elevator girl on up (or down) asked me "Are you going to the races?", "Have you got anything good on the first race?", and "Who do you think'll win in the Derby?" that I decided to cool my anger for a week and allow Mr. Biben time to get his lawyers together for a good libel suit. He may as well be warned that as long as he cares to invade this territory on so obviously a fallacious (this is a mild word for his tactics) basis that he'll have a fight on his hands.

To get back to the races, I hot-footed myself down to Fourth and Liberty, where holds forth the smiling peer of all sports prognosticators and enthusiasts, Izzy Goodman.

"Izzy," I said, "Who's going to win the Derby".

And just like a Nazi airplane attack on Paris would start something, that question started something. So I said, "Whoa Izzy, wait a while. Put it down on paper."

And so he did. And here it is:

"The Kentucky Derby shapes up as an open race, but class will tell as it does in any sporting event. To select the winner of this famous classic Saturday one does not have to go beyond Fighting Fox. Here is a colt trained to the minute by a master hand that has already saddled two winners in Gallant Fox and Omaha and would have probably had another winner had not Granville lost his rider, at the start. So Fighting Fox is the writer's choice to win by three lengths and pay $8.60. For the place position, Stagehand looks next best. The record of this fine horse speaks for itself. He has won two of the richest stakes at Santa Anita, thereby earning the grand total of over $150,000 in these two races alone. The show honors should be given to Bull Lea, which has been racing in great form. If any horse beats Fighting Fox, it may be Bull Lea. In fact the real race will be for the place position as Stagehand and Bull Lea figure to finish right together.

So that's my story of the 64th running of the Derby and if I am wrong you can sue me.

Israel Goodman.

Gov. Moore's Stand And The Jewish Laymen

In his reproach of the Newark Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church for its adoption of the report of its social service commission calling upon Jersey City churches to open their buildings for meetings barred by Mayor Frank Hague and civil authorities, New Jersey's Governor A. Harry Moore, lined himself on the side of the Jewish laymen in their fight against the rabbinate.

When the Central Conference of American Rabbis (Reform) advocated a more equitable system of government, the laymen of Reform Jewry looked askance at the forward-looking pronouncement of the rabbinate and sought some rein on future declarations for the same tendency. This disapproval finds expression in Governor Moore's words: "It's the duty of the Church to build men. Settling the affairs of the state is not the duty of the church, nor doing the things the world can do better than the church, but building men for God."

Gov. Moore would relegate the Church to its hereditary position of impotence, a position which Church leaders of the present have refused to accept. "The ultimate issue," the Rev. Dr. Samuel McCrea Cawelt, general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches said last year in this paper "concerns our whole conception of the nature of the Church in relation to society.... It is not the function of the Church merely to express the ideals and aspirations of a particular culture or a particular generation.... As Reinhold Niebuhr puts it, the average church appears as hardly more than a quasi-religious and quasi-cultural enterprise which is frequently content to add a pious phrase to whatever values, cultural, social and political, the community may be pursuing".

As sure as you are reading this paper, the Central Conference of American Rabbis, at its annual meeting will censure the Y. M. H. A. of Jersey City for its cancellation of a meeting of a group opposing Mayor Frank Hague. Rabbi Sidney E. Goldstein, assistant to Rabbi Stephen S. Wise at the Free Synagogue, made several talks in Jersey City denouncing the stand of the Y. M. H. A. boards in furthering Mayor Hague's deprivation of the rights of free speech to opposition groups. The Social Justice Commission of the C. C. A. R. has the fire of prophetic spirit in its utterances, as past declarations from that socially-minded body has shown.

But Governor Moore's insistence that the Church in its assistance to the downtrodden is exceeding its role, indicates that political and economic leaders of the nation, along with the Jewish leaders of the same classifications have refused to accept the new declaration of religion's mission in the world.

It will be a battle. And it is quite probable that the outcome of the battle will determine in very large part the future of civilization. Every collapse of the Church in recent years has been a flaming example of organized religion's failure to keep the word of the Prophets or Christ, as you will. In Russia, in Mexico, in Spain, the Church's refusal to espouse the right of the poor has resulted in rebellion. The age of enlightenment has resulted in an age of rebellion. The church's only hope is in social justice and the Rabbinical Assembly and the C. C. A. R., as they should be, are in the front in the fight for this concept.

It is Gov. Moore and the continued decadence of the Church, or it is the Methodist Episcopal's opening of its church doors and the age of new progress.

Rabbis Should Solicit Memberships For The Publication Society

THE Boston Jewish Advocate in advocating editorially last week support for the Jewish Publication Society of America touches upon a problem in connection with rabbis and Jewish literature in the home which will continue to be an enigma as long as spiritual leaders continue their physical apathy towards the Society.

Mentally and spiritually every rabbi is a supporter of the Jewish Publication Society. They are backers of the society in the same way in which they approve of every benevolent Jewish group. A member of the Society receives annually for his minimum dues three fine Jewish volumes, either of the current publications of the Society, or of past volumes, and the effectiveness in regards to cultivation of Jewish interest and affiliation of this type of persuasion can be measured only in many, many synagogue attendances and many, many B'nai B'rith meetings, or many, many donations to Jewish drives.

If then, membership in the Jewish Publication Society, has a fine tendency towards infiltration in the home of a healthy interest in Jewish affairs, then it is emphatically logical that the task of every rabbi would be lightened in direct ratio to the number of the members of his congregations that belong to the Society. Then, it follows, that it could be expected that Rabbis would engage in an active solicitation, either by personal contact, or by pulpit exhortation, for memberships.

Yet in this paper's memory, no rabbi has ever adopted such a program.

In The Advocate's editorial, mention was made that a paid representative of the society, Rabbi Louis J. Haas, was in Boston to solicit memberships. That is as it should be; but his task and the task of Maurice Jacobs, energetic secretary of the society would be considerably lessened by real cooperation from the rabbinate.

Jewish Book Week, an annual affair, could well be the occasion for a united effort by rabbis everywhere for a spirited drive.

A member of the Jewish Publication Society is the finest potential synagogue member, the finest potential subscriber to this paper, the finest potential contributor to annual drives, the finest potential Jewish leader—that is, if he is not already at the top in each of these categorical imperatives for wholesome Jewish life in America.

Comments On Current Topics

H. L. Meites, Publisher Of The Chicago Jewish Chronicle On The Jewishness Of Jewish Organizations.—There is a growing demand, throughout the country, that Jewish social workers be more Jewish in thought and in action, and be identified with Jewish activities outside of their own narrow sphere. Unfortunately most of our Jewish social service leaders are, at best, passive to Jewish life and tradition and devote all their energies to their profession. The same is true of Jewish clubs which are devoid of everything Jewish. Here is the Covenant Club as an example. For all intents and purposes it is a distinct Jewish organization serving the Jews of Chicago in an admirable and laudable manner. But as this club serves bread on Pessach it not only violates Jewish tradition but shows poor judgment. We have received several complaints, during the week, on that score and advised the complainants to take the matter up with the management of the club or with their respective Rabbis, who may be members of the club. A Jewish club should observe Jewish religious traditions and Jewish customs if it is to be known as a Jewish institution and deserve the appellation. As one member aptly pointed out, the Irish Fellowship Club will not serve its members with meat on Friday, while the Covenant Club does not draw the line at all as far as food is concerned—which is regrettable.

Fritz M. Witte Discusses Unity Of American Jewry In The Every Friday, Of Cincinnati.—And so this cry for unity is growing daily to the extent where many feel that rather than support three national organizations, each posing as spokesman for all the people, while refusing at the same time to cooperate with the other two, they would withdraw their support from all three of them. Such a movement is indeed under foot and to belittle it, would on the part of the responsible leaders, be criminal folly.

Freedom Of The Press

Hanita Heroes Issue Call. To The Editor:

Wider support for the Jewish National Fund land purchasing program in Galilee with a view to surrounding Hanita, the latest settlement on Jewish National Fund land, recently established on the Palestine-Lebanese frontier, with more Jewish settlements, was urged in a touching call issued by the heroes of Hanita.

The call, dated April 6, several days after the repulsion by the Hanita settlers of an Arab attack after two Jews were killed, bears the signature of all Chalutz organizations who responded to the call for volunteers for the occupation of the strategically important settlement. The appeal declares:

"From the height of Hanita, the new point of occupation on the northern frontier of the country, we greet all our fellow-Jews whose efforts and labors contributed to the redemption of the land of this settlement; to all who have taken part and are taking part in the 'On To Galilee' campaign of the Keren Kayemet Le Israel, this message is addressed.

"We, members of different organizations and bodies, have come here from different parts of the country, privileged to plant the first stake of this Jewish settlement on the northwest frontier of Upper Galilee. In the face of severe obstacles and bloody attacks we occupied this land, to work it, to hold it. Two of our comrades have fallen while on guard in its defense and their blood renders this land more sacred to us. With every ounce of our strength, we shall apply ourselves to establishing a fruitful settlement in this remote spot, a settlement that shall be a credit to the Upbuilding.

"And while standing guard and laboring in the youngest of the new Jewish settlements of Eretz Israel, we turn to our brethren throughout the Diaspora, to all to whom the Upbuilding of the Homeland is precious, with the appeal: Continue the work you have begun! Do not permit Hanita to be the only settlement in this part of Galilee! Ensure, while the opportunity still remains, that new land shall be acquired in this region, that new settlement points shall arise. Enable the creation of a chain of Jewish villages in these mountains of Naphtali on then ornthern boundary of our Homeland.

"We are not alone; hundreds of others are prepared to do what we have done. All that is lacking is the land. They will do what devolves on them: occupy the land, build villages on it, stand firm in its defense, in defense of the eternal bond between the Jewish people and the Jewish soil in Upper Galilee. But before they can do that, you, Jews of the Diaspora, must rally to the 'On To Galilee' campaign of the Keren Kayemet."

The settlers at Hanita were recruited from among the following pioneer youth organizations: Shomrim Organization, Committee of the Irgunim and Moshavim and the Union of Kevutzot which includes the following groups: Gordonia, Maccabi Hatzair, Hanau Hatzioni, Hapoel HaMizrahi, Hakoah Hameuhad and Hashomer Hatzair.
